SUMP PUMPS

HOW TO PROPERLY DISCHARGE A SUMP PUMP

- 1) You can have the discharge pipe empty onto your property at least 10 feet from the home. With this approach, make sure, the ground slopes away from the foundation and the pipe stays clear of debris or animals. The longer the pipe the less likely the water will infiltrate through the soil and end up back into the sump pit again.
- 2) The second option is connecting the sump pump to the storm drain, which is separate from the sanitary sewer system. This approach usually requires professional installation and may require approval from the city, but completely removes the water from your property. Contact the city if you are unsure if you have a sump pump connection at your curb.

In the City of Osakis, it is illegal to connect your sump pump or roof drains to the sanitary sewer system. (Ordinance #52.02) see more information below on Inflow and Infiltration

*****

GENERAL KNOWLEDGE ABOUT INFLOW AND INFILTRATION INTO SANITARY SEWER

Inflow and infiltration are defined as groundwater and stormwater that enter a sewer system. Collection systems can be damaged when they are forced to transport more flow than they are designed to handle. Increased effluent also raises costs for wastewater treatment facilities, because harmless stormwater and groundwater mix with sewage.

In many cases, inflow and infiltration (I&I) accounts for up to 45% of the annual flow to treatment plants.

Removing improper connections:

- Make sure that gutters, yard drains, and sump pumps aren't connected to the sanitary sewer system.
- Repairing or replacing leaking pipes
- Cracks and leaks in sewer pipes can be caused by age, loose joints, damage, or root infiltration. Pipe replacement is expensive and disruptive, so trenchless technologies are often preferred
- Avoiding planting trees and shrubs over sewers, tree roots can damage sewer pipes and cause leaks
- Keeping cleanout caps on
- Lawn mowers can break the plastic caps on cleanouts, but replacement lids are available at hardware stores.

COMPOST SITE

The Compost Site is now locked at all times. A key can be obtained at City Hall during regular business hours Monday-Friday 8:00 AM – 4:30 PM

There is also organic compost for sale at $5.00 a yard.

Contact City Hall to arrange a time for the City Crew to come and assist in loading.
